

ABSTRACT

a motor coil-shortening detecting unit is provided which determines the existence of a short. The coil shortening 5 detecting unit includes a current sensor for detecting the value of current supplied to a motor from a power source, and a controller for making the shortening determination of coils by comparing a detected voltage or current with a pre-stored normal voltage or current.

10